Tips for ordering plants

- Plan what you want/need, considering markets, ripening dates, existing plantings, etc.
- Do your research on variety characteristics, best plant type (plugs, roots, bare root, etc.) for your needs and situation, regional recommendations and experiences.
- Order early to assure availability of the varieties and plant types you want.
- Inspect plants on arrival to see if they are healthy looking and up to the standard grade.
- Contact the nursery if you have questions or see problems.

New This Year

Several new cultivars make their debut on this year’s Raspberry & Blackberry Nursery list. They are shown below. Please note that berry sizes in the photos are not comparable.

Caddo – An early ripening, thornless blackberry developed by Dr. John Clark at the University of Arkansas. It is being sold by AgriStarts, Indiana Berry & Plant Co., North American Plants, and Nourse Farms. Photo, University of Arkansas. More information at www.uaex.edu/media-resources/news/january2019/0125_Caddo_blackberry_released.aspx

Mapema – An early-fruiting primocane red raspberry from the Advanced Berry Breeding (ABB) program in the Netherlands. It is available in very limited supply from Nourse Farms. Photo, ABB. More information at www.abbreeding.nl/varieties/mapema/?lang=en
